The CCRG comprises a team of researchers, faculty, postdoctoral researchers, students across several RIT's departments and colleges. There are also affiliate members and visiting research scientists. A team of administrative staff members help the center faculty in their daily administrative and computing support functions. The team is proud to include APS Fellows, prize winners and leaders in the field of gravitational physics and astrophysics.